COLONEL PAT DONAN DEAD FOUND DEAD IN BED

Famous Newspaper and Magazine Writer Expired at Portland on Sunday-The Genial Old Man Lived in Salt Lake In Boom Times.

DVICES received in this city yes- pany, which position he held at the terday brought the sorrowful time of his death. Very many of the news of the death of Colonel Pat Donan at his home in Portland last Sunday. It is known that the well known newspaper writer and magazine contributor had been in failing health, but his friends here were not prepared to hear of his demise.

During the boom times a dozen years ago Colonel Pat Donan came to Salt Lake. His fame as a brilliant, dashing and flowery writer had preceded him, and while here he won added laurels. It was he who coined the word "Utahn," to designate a resident of "Utahn," to designate a resident of and craved for more.
Utah, and he named his weekly journal, Colonel Donan. has ers were from his facile pen. Probably no man ever achieved the large measure of success that Colonel Donan did in writing boom literature. It is related of him that he fairly outdid all rivals by sending his articles on the resources and attractions of western states to eastern publishers, who eagerly used his advertising matter without pay. All of Colonel Donan's articles of this kind possessed such literary merit that the big eastern newspapers published columns of his papers published columns of his writings on the boom order without limit

Ttah, and he named his weekly journal, which he published with varying success in this city several years ago, after the word of his coinage.

Some half dozen years ago Colonel Donan went to the northwest and later became the advertising agent of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation components.

Colonel Donan has two nephews in Utah, J. Donnan Reavis, a former newspaper reporter of this city, and Donnan, the proprietor of the Upper Falls resort in Provo canyon. It is rather an oddity that these two have added a letter "n" to the name of Donan. Colonel Donan has two nephews in

Police For Awhile Mystified Over the Death of J. F. Harper

of Bingham.

A strange death that, for a time, was involved in complicated circumstances, and created considerable stir in police circles, occurred at 442 South West Temple street yesterday afternoon. The death was that of J. F. Harper, an aged miner from Bingham. From papers found in his possession it was first hought his name was H. G. Evans and later there was considerable conecture as to where Evans was and now Harper happened to have his pos-

Yesterday morning he did not arise, and when the landlady went to his room she found him dead. The police were called, and when they came they found papers in his pocket bearing the name of H. In his his pocket bearing the name of H. In his pocket bearing the name of H. In his pocket money order drafts made out to H. G. Evans, while he signed his name as

When the officers looked over the papers and saw that there were among them a ticket, letter, pictures and an army discharge belonging to Evans, while there were other papers belong-ing to Harper, they suspected at first that something was wrong, and a search was made for Evans. He could not be located, but late last night it was found that he had stopped off here for the purpose of re-enlisting in the army, and had been at Fort Douglas, He was expected there again today, and instructions was the state of the country of the count for the purpose of re-enlisting in the army, and had been at Fort Douglas, He was expected there again today, and instructions were left for him to communicate with the police.

UTAH chapter No. 1, R. A. M., will hold its stated convocation this (Wednesday) evening at 8 o'clock. Members are requested to attend.

M. C. PHILLIPS, Sec'y.

Just how Harper got the papers is not known, but those were found who ad seen them drinking together a few nights ago, and places were found where they were carousing together. The officers say Evans turned his property over to Harper during the carousal, and they became separated afterwards. The same night Harper was taken sick, and a physician took him to the Windsor hotel. The physician saw him again Monday and he was better, but he thinks the dead man got on another spree and died of acute alcoholism. Harper was about 50 years old.
